

Consulting Services

Our goal is to help you prevent and prepare you for disasters of small magnitude (electrical outages) to large magnitude (earthquakes, tornadoes, fires etc). We do this by evaluating your risk, recommending solutions, training your personnel, and helping you when a disaster strikes.

Advantage EMT specializes in On Site consulting, educational programs, Disaster Planning, Plan Preparation, along with Emergency Management Services for your company.

We offer in-house educational services for your personnel and staff and their families.

Our Consultant and President, Dave Herman has over 30 years of experience in the fire service and EMS. Over 15 years experience in management, training, emergency scene management and command.

Emergency Management

We will come into your facility, do a hazard analysis, research the potential dangers and past disaster history, guide your facility in preparing for, and responding to any possible future disaster. We are also trained and available for on site emergency management if a disaster should occur. Disaster Planning

We will review, write and update your current disaster action plans or create an all new one to meet your individual needs. We can survey, train and prepare your staff, and other company employees. Design and Evaluation

We will come to your business or industry and evaluate, design, train and supervise your staff, and employees in basic disaster planning to full real life disaster situations. Hazard Analysis

We will survey your business and property and find all the hazardous areas, research past disasters, analyze, and prioritize potential dangers. We can then make recommendations and aid in planning and training. We offer American Heart Association CPR, BLS, ACLS, PALS classes in St. Louis, Missouri and Illinois.
